Class Description:

The fireground is more dangerous than ever before! Firefighters are dying during structural fire incidents at an alarming rate. The use of lightweight construction methods, energy conservation, the increase of fuel loading and the unprepared / untrained firefighter are combining to form a deadly combination. This course is designed to prepare the firefighter for the unique dangers of the modern day fireground. Students will learn from real world incidents in which firefighters were killed in the line of duty while operating at structure fires. The course will test the students both mentally and physically.
